Here is the first edition to the Orich Seige Vehicles, the Trebuchet sling shots what will be, boulders.

The model was created by Juha, Texture work by Me.

Here are some images:

Our website is now fully functional.

Nice trebuchet (except, as others have said, for the sling at the end).

And with the weapon fire animation scripts inside scripts.dll, you can make it fire too

Nope, he they just thought they should spend countless hours making differant units, and post them up here for S&G purposes. YES ITS A REAL MOD! And why not? To low tech for you? Im not even gonna waste my time describing how the Trebuchet was used, and all the differant types of projectiles they launched to you.

Nifty!

I'm having trouble picturing how it will be animated though. As in, how all the little details and gears and strings work exactly... Has it been animated yet?

Xeno has no taste at all. Who is he anyway, because he seems to be quite hated around here. Same with someone named Cyberpunk.

I like the detail of the model. Are there anymore to follow?

He is some guy that is trying to fit in on these forums. Haha!

Anyways, model looks great, but I have a question, is that all one texture or multiple textures? And what about polies? You mind posting that as well? Thanks!

Looks good. Why are those rings that are holding the two wires down floating a few inches in the air? They're not touching the base. Also, the sling isn't "solid", it's long, with the projectile in the middle, both ends are attached to the end of the arm, when the arm reaches the top, one of the ends of the sling comes off and the projectile is released.

How about taking a picture of it in the loaded position?

They both make countless cheats, spread them publically and DDOS'ed servers, just because they want to destroy the renegade community. Could this be a fair reason?

Ow yeah, and they try to bypass Renguard but never succeeded for moret han like 10 minutes...

So, uh. . . Does Alt-Fire launch the person running the trebuchet? I've always wanted to hop in and yell "Trebucheeeeeeet!!!" while being hurled five-hundred feet horizontally at wreckless speeds. X3

Ive always wanted to launch plague filled corpses into an enemy fortress with the Trebuchet, and watch the plague spread, slowly killing off and weakening my enemies, until finally my army sweeps over the walls, and slaughters the renmants of the populace, and take control of the fortress to increase my amount of land controlled... That or just throw rocks at people with it.

That's not possible with Renegade, you would need a game that supports ragdoll models.. unless you're willing to make several "in-flight" animations for every character.

CommandoSR wrote on Fri, 19 August 2005 16:54 That's not possible with Renegade, you would need a game that supports ragdoll models.. unless you're willing to make several "in-flight" animations for every character.

You could make one animation (or only a few). Just make an animation with the character template used to create characters with and move the bones in a repeat animation. Save it as "s_a_test.w3d", for example, with the skeleton as "s_a_human.w3d". The animation for any character with this animation would be "s_a_human.s_a_test"; the animations can be inputed as "[skeleton name].[skeleton animation]". This way all you need is a few "ragdoll" animations and apply them to the infantry at random so they look as thou they are different.

I hope that made since to atleast a few, lol.

Edit:

Using this path to do animations other than the common "[name of file].[name of file]", you can create one model and many animations (fire animation, death animation, and etc.). Now you can create a secondary model of whatever you are creating and use the same animations as you did with the first model. Cool eh?
