Sir Phoenixxl "remark on everything" because I express my opinion about this stupid idea?
:rolleyes:

And why, pray tell, is this a "stupid" idea? Do you even KNOW who Dante is?

In case you have no clue, which is my personal opinion of your "enlightened" view, he has been instrumental in getting CTF scripts, Blazeregulator, and many other programs instituted. He has done this through cooperation with Crimson,, Blazer, and several others who contribute far more than you think you do, and done it selflessly, and without the self promoting most others like yourself seem to do.

Visit his sites, get to know this vital community member, then post your response. until then, get out my thread, and stop being a conflicting moron.

Ok, since you want to go down the path of not posting petitions, why do you have a Renegade 2 petition link in your signature? EA will pick when, where, who, and if it wants to do Renegade 2.

I assume you posted that link, because even though you KNOW you cannot affect the outcome of Ren 2, you still want to make your opinion heard. Same goes for this post. i respect Dante, his work, and his level headedness. I also think that because of all those factors, he should have a hand in making this community a success.

Blazer>Welcome to the new Renegade boards. We will have an official FAQ posted soon, but until then I am posting this to address most of the questions so far. I will probably re-edit this post several times over the next few days to reflect the most common questions.

Moderators - Currently the only moderators are Crimson and myself. From what I understand, she plans on letting the forum members nominate a moderator(s) and a public vote will be held. More on this will come from Crimson.

CrimsonThat's part of the reason I haven't added anyone as a moderator yet. These forums are going to be run by the community, for the community, and I wanted to make sure people had an opportunity to state their opinions on how the moderators should be chosen after I shared my idea with you.

Still think it's a "stupid" idea phoenixx?

I have a very important qualification that I am requiring of any moderators who take on all the forums (unlike Mac who's just in the Linux FDS forum)... they must be willing to DO the job... read posts and answer questions relating to the forums, and participate in the secret discussions in the Silo where we hammer out what few rules we will have.

That being said, I don't think I need to add any moderators yet, and when I do, I will ask him if he wants to DO the job. I'm not going to let "moderator" be an honorary position.

However, I have no problem giving him moderator access to the Mod forum only. One-forum moderators can be honorary.

Making him a moderator in the Mod Forum would be great. I think that is where he should moderate. Then when time needs move him into another forum. Don't go on the defence, please. The community is trying to help.

Also did you or Blazer consider asking Greg Underwood if he would like to be part of the community? Linux (hint, hint). There is another asset you all could tap.

Twisted around to suit my needs? What have I twisted? Since when has quoting someone meant "twisting around to suit my needs"?

What, I'm ignorant because my opinion doesn't agree with yours? Is everyone who has a different opinion than yours ignorant? lol :rolleyes:

Oh yeah, "I like to argue". I post my opinion that we don't need anymore moderators, which conflicts with your opinion, and automatically "I like to argue"? Just because I have a different opinion than yours.

Dumbass, I didn't ask for dissenters. I asked PEOPLE WHO SUPPORT this movement to post.

GET OUT OF THIS THREAD IF YOU DON'T LIKE TO ARGUE.

We need one more moderator, as the others aren't always here, and it's a big job. I am trying to get a disgruntled Dante to take an active participating role in the community, and as a reward, taking the reins of the last bastion of Renegade left to us.

I could care less that you don't agree. I don't expect everyone would, thus the request for SUPPORTERS to post. What I do care about is you posting dumbass comments, and then when we reply, you saying "That's not what I meant." Frankly, we don't care what you mean. We like Dante, and want him to be a mod. Now go post you own topic stating "Don't hire Dante for Moderator."

I dare say you could possibly be the most dense object in the universe Sir idiot.

Everyone who doesn't approve, please posts every possible feeling you might have about every potentiality on this topic. Please also feel free to derail this well intentioned endeavour, with your flame spam, and personal, uninformed "feelings". Disregard any common sense, and refute the fact that he's a vital member of this dying community. Also disregard the fact that I really wanted to hear from supporters, and the fact that crimson ASKED for community input on moderators via petition.

Lastly, PLEASE do not read any of the above posts, as it may actually give you half a clue of what the hell has already been discussed

We really want to hear from you!!

Although I'm sure Dante would be flattered, he himself has told me he would not want to be a moderator here. He is much too busy with RenEvo and REOL, and BR .NET, making everything better for Renegade. Not to mention, he is restricting most of his activity to the RenEvo Forums mainly because he doesn't have time for both. Since he probably hasn't/won't see this, i thought i would pass along his feelings to you guys.

If there ever were to be a consideration, one person i can think of that would make a very good moderator would be Apache. But then again, as Crimson said, at this time there really isn't a need for a new moderator. Although I do feel the swear filter should be turned on. There simply is no need for swearing and filth on these boards.

I "remark on everything" myself because:

A) Certain things need to be said.

B) I love the community.

C) I also express my opinons.

But I think Dante should be a moderator for the "Support"...

By "expressing my opinon" I hope not to make any enemys...

I think Carl is right he may well be too busy if so I think Creed would make a good moderator.

Ok, so lets recap.

I open a topic for people who support Dante as a moderator.
Spammers start posting the opposite of what the header requests.
I tell them to get out of the "support" thread, and make thier own.
Now I'm "stupid" because I "contradicted" myself? I stated my opinion, and asked like-minded folks to voice support. I did not ask for a debate of why we shouldn't nominate him. This isn't the "Debate Dante" thread.

If you can't follow the freaking directions listed in the topic header, and then call the topic poster stupid for not respecting your "opinion" (which I never, unlike crimson, asked for), it's not I who look unintelligent.

Don't try to put this off as "Kirby's freedom of thought supression" thread.

Kirby, you are too kind, really, out of everyone, you give me the most support here lately.

Thanks all, but as it has been said, i am a very busy person, and to take the time to moderate these boards would take away time to contribute new items to Renegade.

I have about 15 current projects with Renegade (i haven't forgotten those that asked for help ) and adding a community to moderate... don't want it.

Again.. thanks for the nominations, but i have to sadly decline.
