Since I've installed RenGuard my Anti-Virus is blocking it. this is the message displayed. I have put it on the exception list but it still does not let it run. downloaded RenGuard from <http://www.renguard.com/>

Edit: Just thought of this but it started messing up a few days ago

I can't really think of anything else to do aside from putting it on the exception list

I've been getting the same error from nod32, started happening about the same time that renforums got infected. It's blocked every time. So I don't really care about it, lol.

It's suddenly working again... i guess it will just be an off and on thing... I guess i can deal with it... judging by the fact it started around the time renforums got infected it makes sense really. Thx for help anyway good to know at least when it started.

That's not an executable file, nor are any of its contents executed, it's simply a list of servers (IIRC).

Still kind of curious why on occasion my Anti-Virus blocks it www.v00d00.org is on some sort of shit list (whether this is valid or not I have no idea). Probably because someone added malicious code to his site (similar to what happened on renegade forums). Apparantly renguard uses his own site at some point...

Due to the fact my computer is fine and none of my stuff has been hacked i'm pretty sure it doesn't steal shit
