quote:Originally posted by killr:fill an apc with engineers and one or two other people with nuke or ion cannon things drive into the enemy base and get out fill up the area around the place with mines from engineers and have the other people set the explosives then kerpow the enemy lost a building is this a good strategy?At the start of the game with 0 or below 900 starting credits... no...counter, at the very first minute, both sides are already mining the base.... too late, but not quite, it depends where the mines are placed and which building is your target... They can defuse it from afar... remember, the Repair Gun is a projectile, but with a certain range.... And they can defuse the mines....
