I've got a new technique that works pretty well. I place a couple of mines on either side of a door on the inside at head level. The nme can't see the mines and think it's an easy entry, but when they walk throught the door the get a mine to the head .I've also mixed this up with some trickery. I'll place an obvious mine off to one side of an entrance outside. Most times they'll go to the opposite side and enter (I make an obvious gap [noob style ]). Again, the head shot mine tags em before they know what happend.
