Subject: Tank stealers!!!!!
Posted by Anonymous on Thu, 04 Apr 2002 21:46:00 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

quote: flashing my usual n00b binds messages  I'm hoping against hope that this means that you have found a way to bind messages to hotkeys.  I soooo want this to gbe a part of renegade...please tell me there is a way to do it.As for the stealin' thang.  I remember in my first few games in demo, thinking I'd bought a tank, when I really hadn't, and getting my hackles up when I saw someone get into a tank I'd thought I'd just bought.  But, thankfully, someone very nicely suggested that I check my credits.  Indeed, I had not bought the vehicle.  I still think of the nice person who took the time to explain my error rather than flame me.  Due to this patience extended to me, I try to do the same.  Of course, if the pay no attention....well, anything goes.If you steal a tank to avoid it's destruction, or see one sitting around for a long time without an owner, I find it's a good idea to broadcast the fact that you've just taken the tank.  If no one speaks up, it's yours.  If it belongs to someone, they can safely come and claim it.Civilized behavior usually gives the best results.  Except toward the enemy.  Kick the crap out of them