Lets bring this back on topic. Time travel. Time it self is really a concept of we created to keep track of change. As people say everything that has a begining has an end. This is going into the concept of the meaning of life it self. My thyr'e is that in the begining of existence there was nothing physical. Everything existed in energy. Then conceshness came in and created physical reality. This was the moment time was created. This might be hard to compreheand. As in the thyr'e of relivitivity time is relitive. In a black hole time itself stops so in the begining the entire plane of reality is a black hole, as in all of this is massive energy that had no way to expell itself.
