

---

Subject: [CS] [RG]

Posted by Aircraftkiller on Wed, 28 Jul 2004 04:33:31 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Clouds don't rise, you know. They're constantly in a state of falling to the ground, only offset by air currents or dissipation.

The only rising they do is by thermally induced expansion, causing the cloud to grow taller or more massive.

---