AlkalineI called ATI on the phone they said they never heard of the developer registered program and a 40% discount, they said they ship cards out to most developers for free :rolleyes:

http://apps.ati.com/developers/devform1.asp special discounts on currently shipping products (NTSC only)

You're really going to some lengths to try to prove me wrong, aren't you?

Large developers get cards for free. Us small startups have to make do with a discount.

Regardless the ATI page isn't up to date, but the also have an official FIRST PARTY x800 pro VIVO and these 3rd party x800 pro vivos are based of the offcial core:

and guess what? I still don't care.

Thats the retail x800 pro VIVO from sapphire, Thier are retail models availible for gigabyte, power color, club3d and more.

btw the gigabyte x800 pro vivo ships with 16 pipes unlocked running at xt speeds. Looks like the manufacturer "pre-hacked" it for you :rolleyes:

I don't get a discount on 3rd-party hardware.
