UberfahrWhere is this "Europe" country btw? Somewhere in Asia?
I really really hope you were joking there, other wise you have less of a clue of foreign countries than ACK.

@ACK

Most of the domestic policies of the countries in Europe are aimed at helping the citizens of their countries, making life better for the "people" means a happier and more productive country, a more productive country makes more money, a country with the aim of making more money is Capitalist therefore Europe is Capitalist.
