here is some advise....make your own template, never buy one, bought ones suck ass, or just get a free one and dismantle it until there is nothing but the format of the site, then rebuild to you specifications. Here is an old site of mine I made about a half year ago. i still gave credit to the people who made the template, but i raped the hell out of it. I even changed it up a bit when you go into the clan section(although it wasnt hard to do) HTML is very primative and easy to do.
