I guess I should also mention that I intend to "group" the forums up and re-organize a bit.

I really feel that a lot of us have known each other on here for years and a lot of you are in the teenager level which is always a source of strife. In having this new section, like I said before, I would add 2 moderators whose sole responsibility was that forum (in addition to Blazer, Warranto, and myself) to make sure it is covered as often as possible. Another possibility is to create a "group" that can access the forum and you would add yourself to the "group" if you wanted to be a part of it.

It does look like the votes were overwhelmingly in favor of the new forum... let's see what I can do.
