Crimson700,000 people is like 233 September 11th, 2001 attacks...

Really?! Oh....wow! And I'm sure you'll have a follow-up post on why 700,000 can be described as "millions" too!! Because...you know...that was my point.

Crimson...not liberal "omg dogs barking" "torture"

I see you used the word "liberal" as a synonym for "weak" or "gentle." Very mature. God, you people are such mother-conservativers.

Gbullhowever SEAL, 700,000 is just as bad as one million dont you think. Quoting Red Alert: If you kill one, it is a tragedy, if you kill one million, it is a statistic. In this case its a statistic and 700,000 or one million...

That was Stalin, I believe. 700,000 is not just as bad as 1,000,000. In fact, I believe 1,000,000 is about 300,000 lives worse. The point is that the word "millions" was thrown around stupidly.

And another thing...
cowmisfitNo reason what so ever besides millions of innocent iraqies killed by saddam , 3000 americans and counting killed because of groups saddam funds and supports

How are casualties sustained during a war justification for going to war?
