TheGunrunWell i want linux for the fastness and all of the new abilitys and its constant lack of flaws. And for gaming chat'n homework and shit like that.

The Problem is, not every game runs on a Linux box and certain proffesional software only runs on Windows. OpenOficce might be a good solution, to Office. But In the End I rather use Office than OpenOffice.

Next to the fact that is a bit harder to fully learn how it all works. Not every program just has an easy setup program. It sometimes just includes having to manually change some settings in a text file.

At this moment I'm running for half a year only on Red Hat 9 Linux on one Pc. The pc it self is a bit dieing. It's my old Renegade pc. P3 450 326 MBRAm. And the Videocard is a voodoo 5500 PCI 64vram. I only use it to surf the web, MSN and as a SSH and FTP server. And some simple c++ and java programming.
