=[DT=gbull=[L]=]Right, because there is not even a grey area when it comes to the Oil for Food Scandals, we have justifications for our actions and we still believe in them, even if you dont. And if protection means bending the rules of a flawed international being, then so be it.

They could probably justify their actions as well, and most likely believe in them.

Attacking Iraq had nothing to do with the protection of America, there was never any proof to the contrary.
