I am getting REALLY tired of your attitude. I am not changing these forums. phpBB is the most popular and most used PHP based forum software, and that makes it have more people looking over its code trying to find exploits.

Furthermore, I am not one of those people who changes my forum software every other month and loses all accounts and posts. I think it shows a huge lack of respect for your visitors to make a move that you KNOW will cost you data, and I do not like to make drastic changes.

I do my best to keep things up and running and as stable as possible for the people who visit here, and we do our best to follow the exploits and patch them. I also have offsite backups of the database several times per day so any data loss would be minimal.
