Subject: M$ shuts down windows activation
Posted by Doitle on Sat, 05 Mar 2005 05:12:28 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

SP2 Didn't do a thing to me. I haven't had a single program not run because of it. You don't even really notice it. Like I said in the other post. When you install it, you need to go to the control panel and disable Windows Auto Virus Scan, and Windows Firewall. That is it. Other than that you won't tell the difference between Windows XP original, SP1, or SP2. If they had to reformat their computer when installing SP2 there's prolly a greater issue at work there than SP2... :rolleyes: