Unfortunately, I opened this thread with the anticipation of a witty banter and humorous jabs over ACK's Xv1 proclivities.

As usual, this topic degenerated faster than Rosanne Barr's career.

You know you could actually make fun of ACK and be clever about it, but instead you throw around childish names and groundless criticisms. By baselessly attacking ACK in a 'roast' thread, you only reinforce my positive opinions of him, and force me to come to his defense.

If you are going to attack someone in the context of print, the least you can do is be a proficient communicator. Be funny and witty, and even insults will be well received. You stupid fucknuts.
