I agree with De7. Why is everyone deciding to change a character after 3 years of the games release? Don't complain about getting killed all the time by them just because you can't buy a character to face them because you let your hon/bar die, try taking cover, or dare I say buy a heavy armoured vehical. Also if your heli's keep getting owned because there is a sniper, again take cover or kill them. If there are too many and you keep losing a heli, then stop buying them! When it gets to those games where you team has next to no buildings and are getting upset about the snipers owning your basic infantry..try to flank them so you can face them close range, or you can simply leave the game, there are others. Finally I don't think their clip sizes and damage shouldn't be changed I've played renegade since the demo and I'm fine with it. The gun is an anti-matieral(so says the instructions) weapon so you going to expect more damage then the $500 sniper.
