"I could care less what some nerds on the internet think about me nor shall you."

And you care what some nerds say about Terri, and then you go on insulting people after giving advice not to care about what people think about you on here. So why bother posting. People will always have thier opinions, though they can be "cruel" to some, but they don't strike ppl the same way. It's stupid voicing your opinion then shitting on another's. Like you said why should you care what people say on the internet. What's said is said.
