It only fixes the problem for those who are already here. There have been a few times where it all kicked off because a Newbie came in and wondered why this aircraftkiller was being such a dick to them. What are they going to have, an FAQ telling them that they should put him on their ignore list right away... it's not their fault, they just don't know any better.

I would rather any one new can start off ok, until they - fit in - or make an ass of them selfs.

I'm not for banning, I just like clean and relatively friendly forums.
