So, you're saying the chamber doesn't store a slug?

It stores the slug before firing, a magazine is any place or object, etc. that stores ammunition, rather it's an M16 box magazine, an internal magazine, or the ammunition storage room for the main guns on a battle ship. It only storing one slug doesn't matter, if I were to only insert one bullet into an M16 magazine it wouldn't somehow disqualify it from being a magazine.
