

---

Subject: Well, here's CaptKurt1's "Glacier AI" map - RIPOFF

Posted by Fabian on Fri, 18 Apr 2003 12:30:49 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

would any court ever give you any money for something that cost you diddly squat to make? I just dont think they would take you seriously as there is no money involved in any of this...

and by the way...taken from <http://whatiscopyright.org/>

"When does Copyright Protection begin, and what is required?

Copyright protection begins when any of the above described work is actually created and fixed in a tangible form.

For example, my brother is a musician and he lives in the United States. When he writes new show that he is the author, places it in an envelope and mails it to himself without opening it. His copyright begins at the moment he puts his idea in a tangible form by printing the lyrics out on paper. He creates proof when he mails it to himself - the postmark establishes the date of creation. He then registers his copyright with the U.S. Copyright Office which is a requirement in order to sue for monetary damages should a violation of his copyright arise. However, if somebody copies and redistributes his lyrics without permission before his copyright is registered, he still has the right to assert a copyright claim as the true author. "

you havent done that to my knowledge ack...not that it would matter.

(so i admit i was wrong in some aspects of the copyright stuff, but i was on the money for the chep mans copyright)

---