Subject: OT: Firefox corruption?
Posted by warranto on Sun, 15 May 2005 02:22:46 GMT

meh, I don't care what I use (more or less), as long as it's not IE.

Problems avoided by not using IE:

Downloads don't randomly stall (much annoyance here when it stalls after downloading for a few hours, at 99% - seemingly for the reason that you moved the mouse).

PDF files don't cause the computer to temporarily stall when downloading and being opened, which IE seems to do at the same time.

Downloads can be resumed within the browser.