I know what your going through, I drive around 50 miles per day with a truck that gets less than 15 miles per gallon. Gas prices here are not that expensive yet since we have at least 2 refineries in our area, not to mention all the automatic oil pumps in every farmer's pasture. Anyway what I have been doing is buying about 10 dollars worth of gas to tide me over until hopefully the price goes down some, but with the way things are going its not going to be anytime soon.
