You're a little lost, JPNOD. For one thing, there is no Athlon that is above 3.0GHz unless you overclock it, and secondly, his CPU can't affect the performance his video card should give so greatly. If you read what I said earlier, I'm getting better performance with a much worse video card and a pretty equivalent processor, which shows that your information is pretty flawed. His CPU cannot affect his video card so dramatically like that unless he had something like a 1GHz Pentium III. It is obviously something else.

DJM, I suggest doing what I asked in my last post so that we can troubleshoot this.
