We don't have to hijack every topic... some of the less organized "members" seem to not be able to realize this. Crimson we are attempting to organize, and prevent useful topics from being hijacked. I am going to lay down some more "set in stone" rules. All people that would like to consider themselves "members" of the "e-terrorists" go to insanespace.com. E-terrorists might not be the best name for us. We should probably go more of an intelligent name. Which... once again should be posted on the insanespace.com forums.
