
Subject: Re: The Universe similar to time travel thread

Posted by RTsa on Wed, 12 Oct 2005 19:31:50 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

gbull wrote on Wed, 12 October 2005 09:47In my mind, something cannot come from nothing, be it physical or otherwise.

Hehe...I just have to say something...

So, something cannot come from nothing. This means Big Bang can't be true either. Where did it come from? Physical stuff had to come from somewhere...so even if you believe in Big Bang - Big Crunch theory..it had to come from somewhere! Didn't really help the evolutionists, though it's just your opinion.

I have to say I disagree with you. Why am I here if I couldn't have come from anywhere?

Quote:Using Blazer's info a bit: Do you believe in dinosaurs?

Yes, I do. If you read the Bible. Job's book or whatever it's called in English, you'll find stuff about Behemoths and some Sea Serpent kind of thing...can't remember the name of it. And they're not the kind of behemoths you find in Heroes of Might and Magic. Their description is very near to a dragon or a dinosaur. If you read some 'poor' translation, you'll find it says hippopotamus..but you'll see they're not hippos if you read the descriptions. (a BIG tail; breathing fire or something like that)

And note, to you: I didn't say I'm a fundamentalist. So you shouldn't assume that. I probably would be a "jesus loving faggot blinded by religion" to some of you, but I think I have some senses left

To tell you the truth, I haven't really made my mind about all this yet. I'm only 18, and when I learn more about the scientific side of this, I might be able to decide. For now, I just evaluate and participate in discussions like this. On BOTH sides usually, but we'll see
