
Subject: Re: The Universe similar to time travel thread

Posted by icedog90 on Thu, 13 Oct 2005 00:14:01 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

pulverizer wrote on Wed, 12 October 2005 11:47Yeah I know what you mean. There had to be a beginning. and what was there BEFORE the beginning? Nothing I think. It's really strange to imagine what "nothing" is. It has no shape, Size, color (not white or black, nor invisible) etc. Then there was something in Nothing which was created or created itself. I don't really care what happened after that. But what happened before all that can bother the hell out of me.

In our minds we can't comprehend the fact of something always existing, just like trying to understand infinity. God has always been there, and just because we think there HAS to be a beginning doesn't mean there really was one, it's just that our minds are too puny to understand that concept. It is in fact infinity.

Think of it like trying to understand infinity, but just because it is very difficult to comprehend doesn't mean there must be an end in space and that nothing is infinite.
