Thanks, but your congratulations come somewhat late as I found out about that command the moment before I downloaded the beta of whatever new patch that contained this feature (I can't recall what version it was). Have you ever set your settings to minus -insert random number here-? It's pretty fun (that's one of the multiple results I got). :0

By the way, there's a server on XWIS that still allows vehicle settings editing in a multiplayer game, but saddly you tend to warp around when you change them. :\