
Subject: Re: Thank You Crimson
Posted by Chronojam on Sun, 12 Feb 2006 20:19:13 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

The n00bstories IRC server, captain asshat.

And why the hell are the exact details of the script so vital to your cause?! Holy shit dude, you know how to script, so do I need to give you a tutorial on setting up an ON TEXT SCRIPT as a REMOTE?

```
on *:TEXT:<text here>:#(Channel name here without #):{ <commands here>
}
```

See, you put the text where it says "text here" that you want as a trigger. You can put a channel name in the next section if you want, or not; there's awesome special symbols you can use too. You can specify, using for example # or ? or another punctuation, to indicate any channel or any PM or any channel or PM. Then you put the actual commands. These aren't your default IRC commands, these are the "real commands." For example, to kick a stubborn son of a bitch, use <//kick snipgod>. You can of course specify a "reason" to display to the channel for the kick!

Why the hell do you keep demanding the exact script from me?! I can't provide it, I cleared my aliases last time I reinstalled mIRC and NNS.

Why is it so fucking important? Every damn reply to me is "LOL WHAR IS YOUR SCRIPT? FAILURE TO POST PROVES MY INNOCENCE AND UR STUPIDTY!111" What the hell are you trying to prove?

Also! Breaking news: your IRC nick or hostmask can contain periods! For example, you could be raging.homo@faggotry.snipgod.com... or bhe.xian@why.am.i.so.stupid.co.uk. Not all clients are yet set up for properly displaying this, because the changes were only made decades ago.

Further note: I do not like assshats bringing their bots into my channel either.

Yet another note: People who get banned because they don't know the rules (or maybe do and just break them anyways) shouldn't bitch about how little others supposedly know.
