If you run the server from your home this is never going to work for you. Don't worry though, it probably does work fine for others outside your lan. Just put your name in a file called ssc_ignore.txt. If it doesn't exist create it in the brenbot directory.

The problem here is that you register yourself with the renguard server with you external ip while you connect to your server with your internal ip. Since these 2 are not the same Brenbot will think you are not running renguard.
