Granted!

You win your tournament but in second place comes a terrorist from the middle east. In spite of the anger he follows you home and places explosives all around your house and neighborhood. He then blows up your neighborhood in his freakishly bad arabian sportsmanship. The country you live in sees this as a act of terrorism and war, They begin to bombard Iraq and land ground troops and armor shortly after. They conflict with other countries military stationed in Iraq by accident. They do not forgive the careless mistake and war breaks out between the two, which leads to three countries being at war with eachother. Soon more are dragged into the conflict and so beings World War III. Ouch...

I wish that I could find a new back hatch and right side fender for my car for around eighty dollars.
