(by that I mean the asshole politicians who called our troops in Iraq cold blooded killers Who called them "cold blooded killers?" To do so would be political suicide and no politician smart enough to think up these elaborate plots would say that if they wanted to actually gain the trust of the American people.

Quote:in Texas you HAVE to have a tracking device in your car, and if you take it out or if you fiddle around with it, the police will catch you and fine you, or put you in jail, also you have to pay, something like 35 cents to go 1 2 3 or 4 miles on the Interstate Man dude, my ass doesn't produce this much shit. I fucking live in Texas and there's no chip in our cars. One's a '95 and one's a '99. We didn't put chips there and they were made long before you're claiming all this happened, so unless you expect me to believe that a government agent slipped passed our two dogs and into our locked garage, installed a microchip without waking anybody up or making any noise of any kind, did so before daylight, and got back out of the locked garage and past our two dogs again without any clues at all or messing anything up, you logically must be full of horseshit.

Go drive down I-35 and see if you have to pay a toll anywhere on it. You're probably confusing the interstate with the toll roads, which is pretty hard to do unless you're a blithering retard.

And just for everyone's benefit:

il·lu·mi·na·ti pl.n.

1. People claiming to be unusually enlightened with regard to a subject.

thrash300 = claiming to be unusually enlightened with regard to this subject

Therefore thrash300 = Illuminati

Like I said, I don't remember the exact details, these things might be already in place, or they might be in the working.
