Why would I give you any information about myself.

What do you call what you just posted? You seem to have no problem with telling us that you (supposedly) work for EA and make $50 an hour. But when we ask for specifics, you "don't have to prove anything." Telling us how much you make is nearly as sensitive, if not more so, as your job title and your supervisor. Stop prancing around the issue and answer us when we ask you a question.

Every time you post your incoherent babblings, you get 10 messages flaming you to high hell and you think WE can't deal with YOUR shit? You think we've never had anyone talk shit to us before? I can give you at least 5 separate threads with people just like you.
