ok, reading this thread has somewhat improved the image of xwis (to me atleast) because it shows willingness (they registered here, and even after some memembers flammed then, they replied ), and they answered any questions/concerns that I may have had.

More like they flamed Crimson for no fucking reason. But whatever. The people who have decided to attack me are just softening our stance on this issue. Good job.

snipler, stfu, we have been told what happened now, and it has been sorted.
Sorted as in accepted Strike Team's lies? Not that I don't believe Strike Team doesn't have a choice in the hosting matters, I still don't see that being a proper reason for the downtime. All it does is try to cover up the situation with "the hosting isn't our fault", which may be the truth, it just doesn't explain half of the situation.
