
Subject: Re: COMCAST USERS: Read this Posted by light on Tue, 10 Oct 2006 23:29:09 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

j_ball430 wrote on Wed, 11 October 2006 11:13Comrade wrote on Tue, 10 October 2006 18:07Nightma12 wrote on Tue, 10 October 2006 16:45light wrote on Tue, 10 October 2006 02:56As above, when it turns on your router requests its maximum speed, which it then limits itself to. There's no real easy way to push new speeds out.

so in theory you could edit your modem to remove the cap?

There's software to do that.

Use at your own risk.

Yeah, for some reason ISPs frown upon that.

Yes it can be done, yes it breaks ToS, yes your ISP will find out, no you shouldn't do it.
