IWarriors wrote on Wed, 10 January 2007 13:36Blazer wrote on Wed, 10 January 2007 06:31Some "cheaters" like 0x90 are not players. They are just good at coding. RenGuard was coded to stop people from hacking into it, so it is a target for coders who like a challenge to break the protection and whatnot. 0x90 does not cheat at renegade, he is just interested in the encryption and protection of Renguard. I believe his main reason for creating the bypass was just to show that it could be done. Since then he has been quite helpful and completely honest, and I believe that his input will help make RG 1.04 a better product.

Understandable and if hes helping Renguard with any input, then thats good.

Though I never said anything about 0x90.

But he must have played it to test it, no?
I'd even say more: I recognised a ss he posted as being in our server, however he just joined and then left. What Blazer means is that he ain't actively playing Renegade.