Yeah but the differenc here is that the mods and admins of this forum are supposed to be doing the community a favor and upholding a responsibility to us all. If they start censoring people, deleting posts, and locking topics that they don't agree with ... this becomes a disinterest to the community.

All I wanted to know is why Warranto decided to get a hair up his ass and lock all of my threads. He never once PMd me, and when I went into discussions about asking him why he's locking he just said "dont argue with mods" (put simply) and locked again. In my mind that is mod abuse.

You're not going to get the respect of people by treating them unfairly or with bias.
