And further:

The movies were from Cyberpunk, the biggest creator of cheats. I just uploaded his video and used it here Razz Razz Razz. The last video was made by Ninjah a guy I know from some forum.

And I admit, I have been cheating, but only on bot maps I made myself. Not on public servers. All bans on public servers are caused by:

TCUFed my younger brother who thinks he always has to curse at moderators or myself for being accused of cheating, even when I don't cheat. I'm just a good sniper and that makes people think I use aimbot or that I cheat.

Conclusion:

I don't cheat in public. I never make any movies where I show cheating materials. All materials were made by Cyberpunk and/or Ninjah. All bans are for language or being accused for using aimbot while I don't use one. And other bans are for team hinder, because I never go along with rushes. Therefore the rush fails and I get accused for doing the wrong things. I do the same thing everytime, cause I'm an infantry man and not a tank elite/n00b. People think they have to ban me for that reason. Ohter bans might be set because my router was totally fucked up a few months ago, that caused renguard to disconnect and I got auto-forced by the server.

I told you to READ!

Yes, thank you for proving my point. You now just admitted that it was you and that the server owner said it was OK to cheat. And in the exact same post you are saying it was cyberpunk in the video. Obviously one or both of these are a lie, and you need to try and come up with something better. You know, this would be a lot easier if instead of lying at every turn you just admit it instead of being such a "dutch" I mean just LOOK at your response! You just said that it was you testing the cheats and in the very same post quoted yourself saying it was cyberpunk. Do you realize how much of an idiot you are sounding right about now? I mean, seriously, you are getting up there as one of the most idiotic people I know list - and I've known a lot of them.

edit: I have now colour-coded it so show the two messages because I feel if I gave enough effort you might understand how stupid you sound.
