Subject: Re: tony blair steps down
Posted by BlueThen on Sun, 20 May 2007 03:10:45 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message gamemodding wrote on Sat, 19 May 2007 07:33puddle_splasher wrote on Sat, 19 May 2007 11:13 Back on topic. What has Tony Blair did for the UK (except Iraq)?

Made taxes go up.
underpaid the NHS.
underpaid schools.
forcing children to go to school.
made it possible to sue for just about anything.
Made it hard for me to fly my model airplane.
Speed cameras (which cause crashes, just for more money).
Allows anyone to just walk into the county then provide them with everything Allowed someone to die, with just giving the killer "dangerous driving without due care and attention"

Taxes went up for the government to manage the country I believe. Schools are underpaid for a reason.. I don't know why though.  Children are forced to go to school for a reason... to learn. You people insult us in being "STUPID!" and "FAT", and schools are suppose to oppose to that. But complaining that the government is forcing children to go to school as that argument going on... just no. We need to be as smart as possible to live a well managed life. The sue thing... I know, it's bullcrap. Most Americans wished that people won't sue for pointless things.
Umm... how did US make it hard for you to fly a model airplane, and how the heck can a speed camera cause crashes?
We don't purposely allow just anyone to walk into the country! we have country border guards everywhere near mexico! Although we are the melting pot of the world, terrorism happens seldomly. I don't know what you are talking about. But perhaps the police didn't know that the killer wasn't a killer? Yeah...

If you notice, this is mostly (or all) the governments fault. It's true, a lot of Americans hate their own government. There is a bunch of conspiracies that someone cracked the ballots and had bush when, but then... kerry is also a ass.