
Subject: Re: tony blair steps down

Posted by puddle_splasher on Sat, 26 May 2007 18:56:31 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

gamemodding wrote on Fri, 25 May 2007 09:50 I had to do stuff that weren't particularly good jobs, EG: unpack 100 computer and 100 monitors and store them

Then try wiping the puke of the floor or changing someones bed after they have shit themselves.

What about giving the "Old Buddy" a bed bath as she makes attempts to maintain her dignity or changing the colostomy bags and collecting urine samples.

Then again I suppose for people that have never worked and sat all their lard arses behind a monitor for weeks on end, must think that storing PCs and monitors is hard work.

What about coming with me and picking up body parts, rescuing kids from fire, mouth to mouth resuscitation on casualties only to have them die in hospital. Deal with the junkies, drunks, ethnics, down-and-outs.....

Where do I stop?

You had a piss easy week in a hospital. Get a life from now on and realise that you got it easy.
