He wasn't caught cheating. He was caught pretending not to be himself and blatantly lying to people about it. And I predicted it because every time you fail at something, you have the positive attribute of picking yourself back up and trying again. Unfortunately, this is a community that is in some dark times and trust and strong relationships are very important - and you continually abuse yourself by doing this kind of crap. The interesting part will be to see what Kamuix does about it. I'm willing to bet money he knew (since I saw logs of him talking to you about working together).
