I wish I could say I was a Republican... actually, I don't.

I'm a proud Libertarian, and I can no longer support this war when we are not doing anything to ensure that Iraq is going to even attempt to stand on their own two feet. Sorry, but America is not their crutch. We've given them plenty of time, and we're losing troops in a stalemate, and I, for one, am not going to be a pawn of our military. The draft WILL NOT happen. If Republicans know what's good for them (and I hope they do, as I still LOATHE Democrats), they will vote down any attempt for a draft. Even those supporting the war still will never go for it.
