One win against NF when you were smurfing, congrats.

Three flaws...

1. you don't get bragging rights for a game when you were smurfing
2. how many games have you lost to NF?
3. what's your win ratio against H2O? assuming you summoned up the balls to play them at all, which would surprise me

BartGg wrote on Sun, 28 October 2007 14:29 every think you typed just there is a lie.

Which bit

"And still nobody likes or respects you..."

god knows that's true

"no, I suspended him for a very brief period for posting messages from a banned person. His signature is a joke, he's quoting something I SAID as a joke... only someone as thick as you would actually believe it."

that's true too... like I said, it takes a special kind of dimwit to believe something TD and I were joking about, but then you are indeed a special kind of dimwit

"The same reason: posting for banned people, which has always been a suspendable offence." true, again

"Banning people for breaking the rules doesn't make me "power hungry". I've been saying for a while that you need to take a break, i.e. turn your computer off, go outside, get some fresh air, maybe make some friends in the real world instead of sitting alone in a dark room every day getting angry in front of your computer screen."

you're proving this is true as well. Newsflash: this is a game, it's for fun, you aren't supposed to get as angry over it as you do.

When you seriously want a fight in real life because you're angry at them calling you a geek or w/e... I'm sorry, but there's no nice way to say this: YOU NEED TO FUCKING SORT YOUR LIFE OUT
