Thanks for replying.

Alright good to know that you are not behind the !give command, but I can guarantee it does something on my server with BR 1.52 installed. The main problem is that the command exists but I cannot find it in any of the xml files. It seems to be hidden very well.

You explained briefly how the !refund command works, but can you further explain why/how we are given refunds when purchasing new characters.

DP: DO you know anything about the !bmute or !ballow command? I've used them before on n00bstories but they don't work so far with this BR install. Not at least so far they don't.

The ingame 50% refund system is if you already have a character and you change to a new character, !bmute and !ballow blocks and allows players buying beacons
