I swear everything I say goes directly over the majority of peoples' heads. It's not like what I try to say is that difficult to understand. Either people are just that stupid or just that stubborn. Either way, people need to be shot.

As for the economy crashing... it's still funny for a 15 year-old to make these assumptions just based on the price of oil and the weakening of our dollar. Not that either of those two things are good, but they don't portray the guaranteed future of our economy.
