

---

Subject: Re: Random idea?

Posted by CarrierII on Sun, 30 Dec 2007 15:34:48 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Obviously, if the mousemat was powered, it would have a sensor that detected how quickly the mouse was moving towards the pad (ie, pressure applied) and would adjust the strength of the magnets accordingly. That would solve the "mouse goes flying across the room problem".

I think a air-hockey style system may be more feasible, just noisy.

---