Do you know how resilient modern day computer equipment is to magnets? I had no where to keep my LA Sub after I took it out of the box and so it just found its way to resting on my tower. It didn't do anything. Sure old timey computers used to be dead when a magnet was in the same building but not any more. Have you ever mounted two Hard Drives close together? Each contains terrificly powerful magnets. They don't do jack shit to each other.
