So I was considering buying one of these for surfing the internet, and watching videos on the internet. That is all I plan to do with it besides maybe listen to music. If I were to get the cheapest laptop it would be $400 and have only a 4GB HDD compared to the touches 8 or 16GB's.

So I am asking the people who have one, how is it? Is surfing the internet a pain in the ass, with the understanding of a no mouse interface.

I just want something to surf the net and so I do not have to come to my computer and turn it on every time I want to see what you guys are up too.

So to sum this all up.

Does the iPod touch suck at surfing the internet or not?
